

Singapore In General

Thecasesolutions.com

Singapore is a tiny island nation located north of Australia on the state of Southern Malaysia. Singapore used to be a part of Malaysia but is now it's own nation. Although, Singapore is regarded as a city because of it's size and history. Singapore is 718.3 km² and is home to 5.559 million people. Singapore is no cities but has an island right next to it called Sentosa. Sentosa is a tourist destination home to many theme parks such as Universal Studios. Singapore is very, very, VERY clean. The streets have absolutely no litter. In fact, Singapore has a very unique law which prohibits people selling and chewing gum.

Livable City

In Singapore, there are three types of livable cities. There are the urban cities, which are the most livable cities in the world. There are the suburban cities, which are the most livable cities in the world. There are the rural cities, which are the most livable cities in the world. Singapore is a very livable city because of its size and history. Singapore is a very livable city because of its size and history. Singapore is a very livable city because of its size and history.

Push Factors

Singapore is a very livable place ranking number 1 in its past but has since then dropped to number 13 in Monocle's 2015 most livable city's list. There are a few push factors. The cost of living is very high with one month of utilities costing $164 and one month rent for a 85m square apartment is $4,296. Vegetables and fruit are quite expensive too because it is hard to grow food in Singapore. There is also minimal housing and it always rains. There is also not many natural elements.

Singapore: A Concise Profile, 2014

Thecasesolutions.com

Singapore In General

Thecasesolutions.com

Singapore is a tiny island nation located north of Australia on the state of Southern Malaysia. Singapore used to be a part of Malasia but is now it's own nation. Although, Singapore is regarded as a city because of it's size and history. Singapore is 718.3 km² and is home to 5.559 million people. Singapore as no cities but has an island right next to it called Sentosa. Sentosa is a tourist destination home to many theme parks such as Universal Studios. Singapore is very, very, VERY clean. The streets have absolutely no litter. In fact, Singapore has a very unique law which prohibits people selling and chewing gum.

Thecasesolutions.com

Natural Resources

Gardens By The Bay

Thecasesolutions.com

Gardens by the bay was first announced to the public by Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong during the National Day Rally in August 2005. The Garden is made up of two main areas called the Bay South Garden and Bay East Garden. The Garden in total cost around 1.035 billion dollars to build and 53 million dollars operate. The garden is over 101 hectares in total. The garden is filled with many wonderful themed gardens but really, many people come to see the Unique Cloud Forest. a 35-meter tall mountain is situated in the gardens and is covered in mist and lush vegetation and nearby is the world's tallest indoor waterfall.

Singapore Botanic Gardens

Thecasesolutions.com

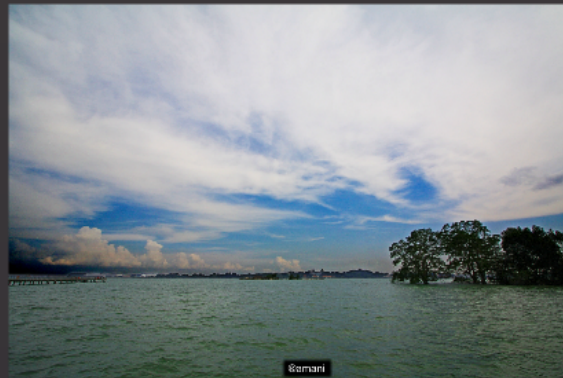

Singapore Botanic Gardens is over 150 years old. It is over 183 acres. In Singapore's first years, the SBG (Singapore Botanic Gardens) was a very important part of cultivating agricultural development in Singapore by gathering, nurturing, experimenting and distributing possibly useful plants. Two of the first, and most important triumphs they had were the Para Rubber and the Spearheads orchids. Like our Gardens, the SBG has different featured gardens.

Chek Jawa Wetlands

Thecasesolutions.com

Chek Jawa was scheduled for land reclamation in 1992. 8 years later, the Chek Jawa Wetlands were opened to the public. Chek Jawa is an intertidal land which means that the area of a seashore which is covered at high tide and uncovered at low tide Which is sometimes referred to as the Littoral Zone. Chek Jawa is 100-hectares. The wetlands are located on the south-eastern tip of Pulau Ubin, a reclaimed island of Singapore.

Jurong Bird Park

Thecasesolutions.com

The Jurong Bird Park is a Nature Park home to birds with over 5,000 birds from 400 different species. The park is over 20.2 hectares in a western corner of Singapore. The Jurong Birdpark is The biggest in Asia

Thecasesolutions.com

Man-made Resources

