Product Overview

I feel the connectivity and accessibility between categories is what truly makes this app innovative. Unlike other traditional banking. Fitness, or social apps MII uses its interface to gather relevant information from all the categories you use to create a algorithm based on sleeping patterns, food consumption, and hundreds of other factors that often go unnoticed during the creation of most "traditional" apps. Our goal is to create a convenient user- friendly interface that offers insight to your daily life making it easier to spend time less overall time trying to stay organised.on the things we love that do not require aimed at the overall betterment of its users. On this interface, users get to feel a sense of clarity and confidence when it comes to insight like what food may better help achieve a dietary goal such as weight loss or weight gain. As mentioned before our innovation and uniqueness is directly derived from the urge to provide users with a clear way to help solve problems of time management, and convenience in their day to day lives.

Our interface is smart and works with users when they want the way they want

For example users can use information from Fitness to not only track their muscle progression, and exercise schedule but also connect to Food to gain insight on the best foods to eat to help reach your goals quicker more efficiently. Let's say for example, Jim has an intense workout schedule and depends on a diet with a higher protein content. The app would run a diagnostic and develop a weekly food routine filled with recipes bases on your fitness plan and regular eating pattern.
