Apparel Industry: Trends

- Compete with shoes and footwear companies
 - : Nike, Adidas
- Highly fragmented competition
- Substantial, continuous investment
 - : 7~12% of revenues on advertising
- Growing power of large mass retailing chains
 - Walmart- bargaining leverage, PL (Price competition)

Apparel Industry : Environment

- Concentrate on design & marketing
- Little or none their own production
- Outsourced to low cost countries (49% in 1992 , 12% in 1999 inside US)
 - Labor intensive process offering few scale advantages
 - Relatively low entry barriers
 - relatively generic skills
 - As a result, small manufacturers around globe

Apparel Industry : Environment

- Subject to complex and ever changing tariffs and quotas
- One country vs another
- Have an extremely broad geographic base of suppliers
 - ex) sweater in the US market

Apparel Industry : Environment

- Some Challenges with globalized SC :finding Suppliers, managing sourcing Relationship, coordinating Product Flow
- Some manufacturers provide fully-integrated supply chain services

VF Operations Strategy

TheCaseSolutions.com

Manufacturing

- Unique operation strategy (internal manufacturing and outsourcing)
- manufacturing in 100 Factories with acquisitions in 1990, changed (2009) Produced 30% in-house in its 40 remaining plants, sourced rest

Internal manufacturing

- Very best in the world in terms of quality, efficiency and reliability
- Set the standard in the industry

Outsourcing

- Require an enormous investment in time
- Need to be visited and assessed
- Strict policy of doing business
- 1600 contractors and 30 distribution centers by 2009
- 2000~2009, increased 15 fold to $ 1.8 billion in Asia alone
- Sheer complexity of the product line :over 600,000 SKUs
- Widely differing needs and priorities of the brand coalitions

From design to store shelf

- 2008. 6~9 Design and marketing decision making
- 2008. 9~12 Identifying suppliers, obtaining price quotes and producing samples
- 2009. 1 Contract signed for all products
- 2009. 3~6 Products made
- 2009. 7 From suppliers to retailers in the US Season begins, sales

VF Supply chain

- "Cut and make" contracts
Mostly for heritage lines
- "Package sourcing"
Mostly for the lifestyle brands
- Lack of coordination & trust
Little loyalty to one another
- Time consuming
- Lack of process improvement

What is next?

Let's move on the next page

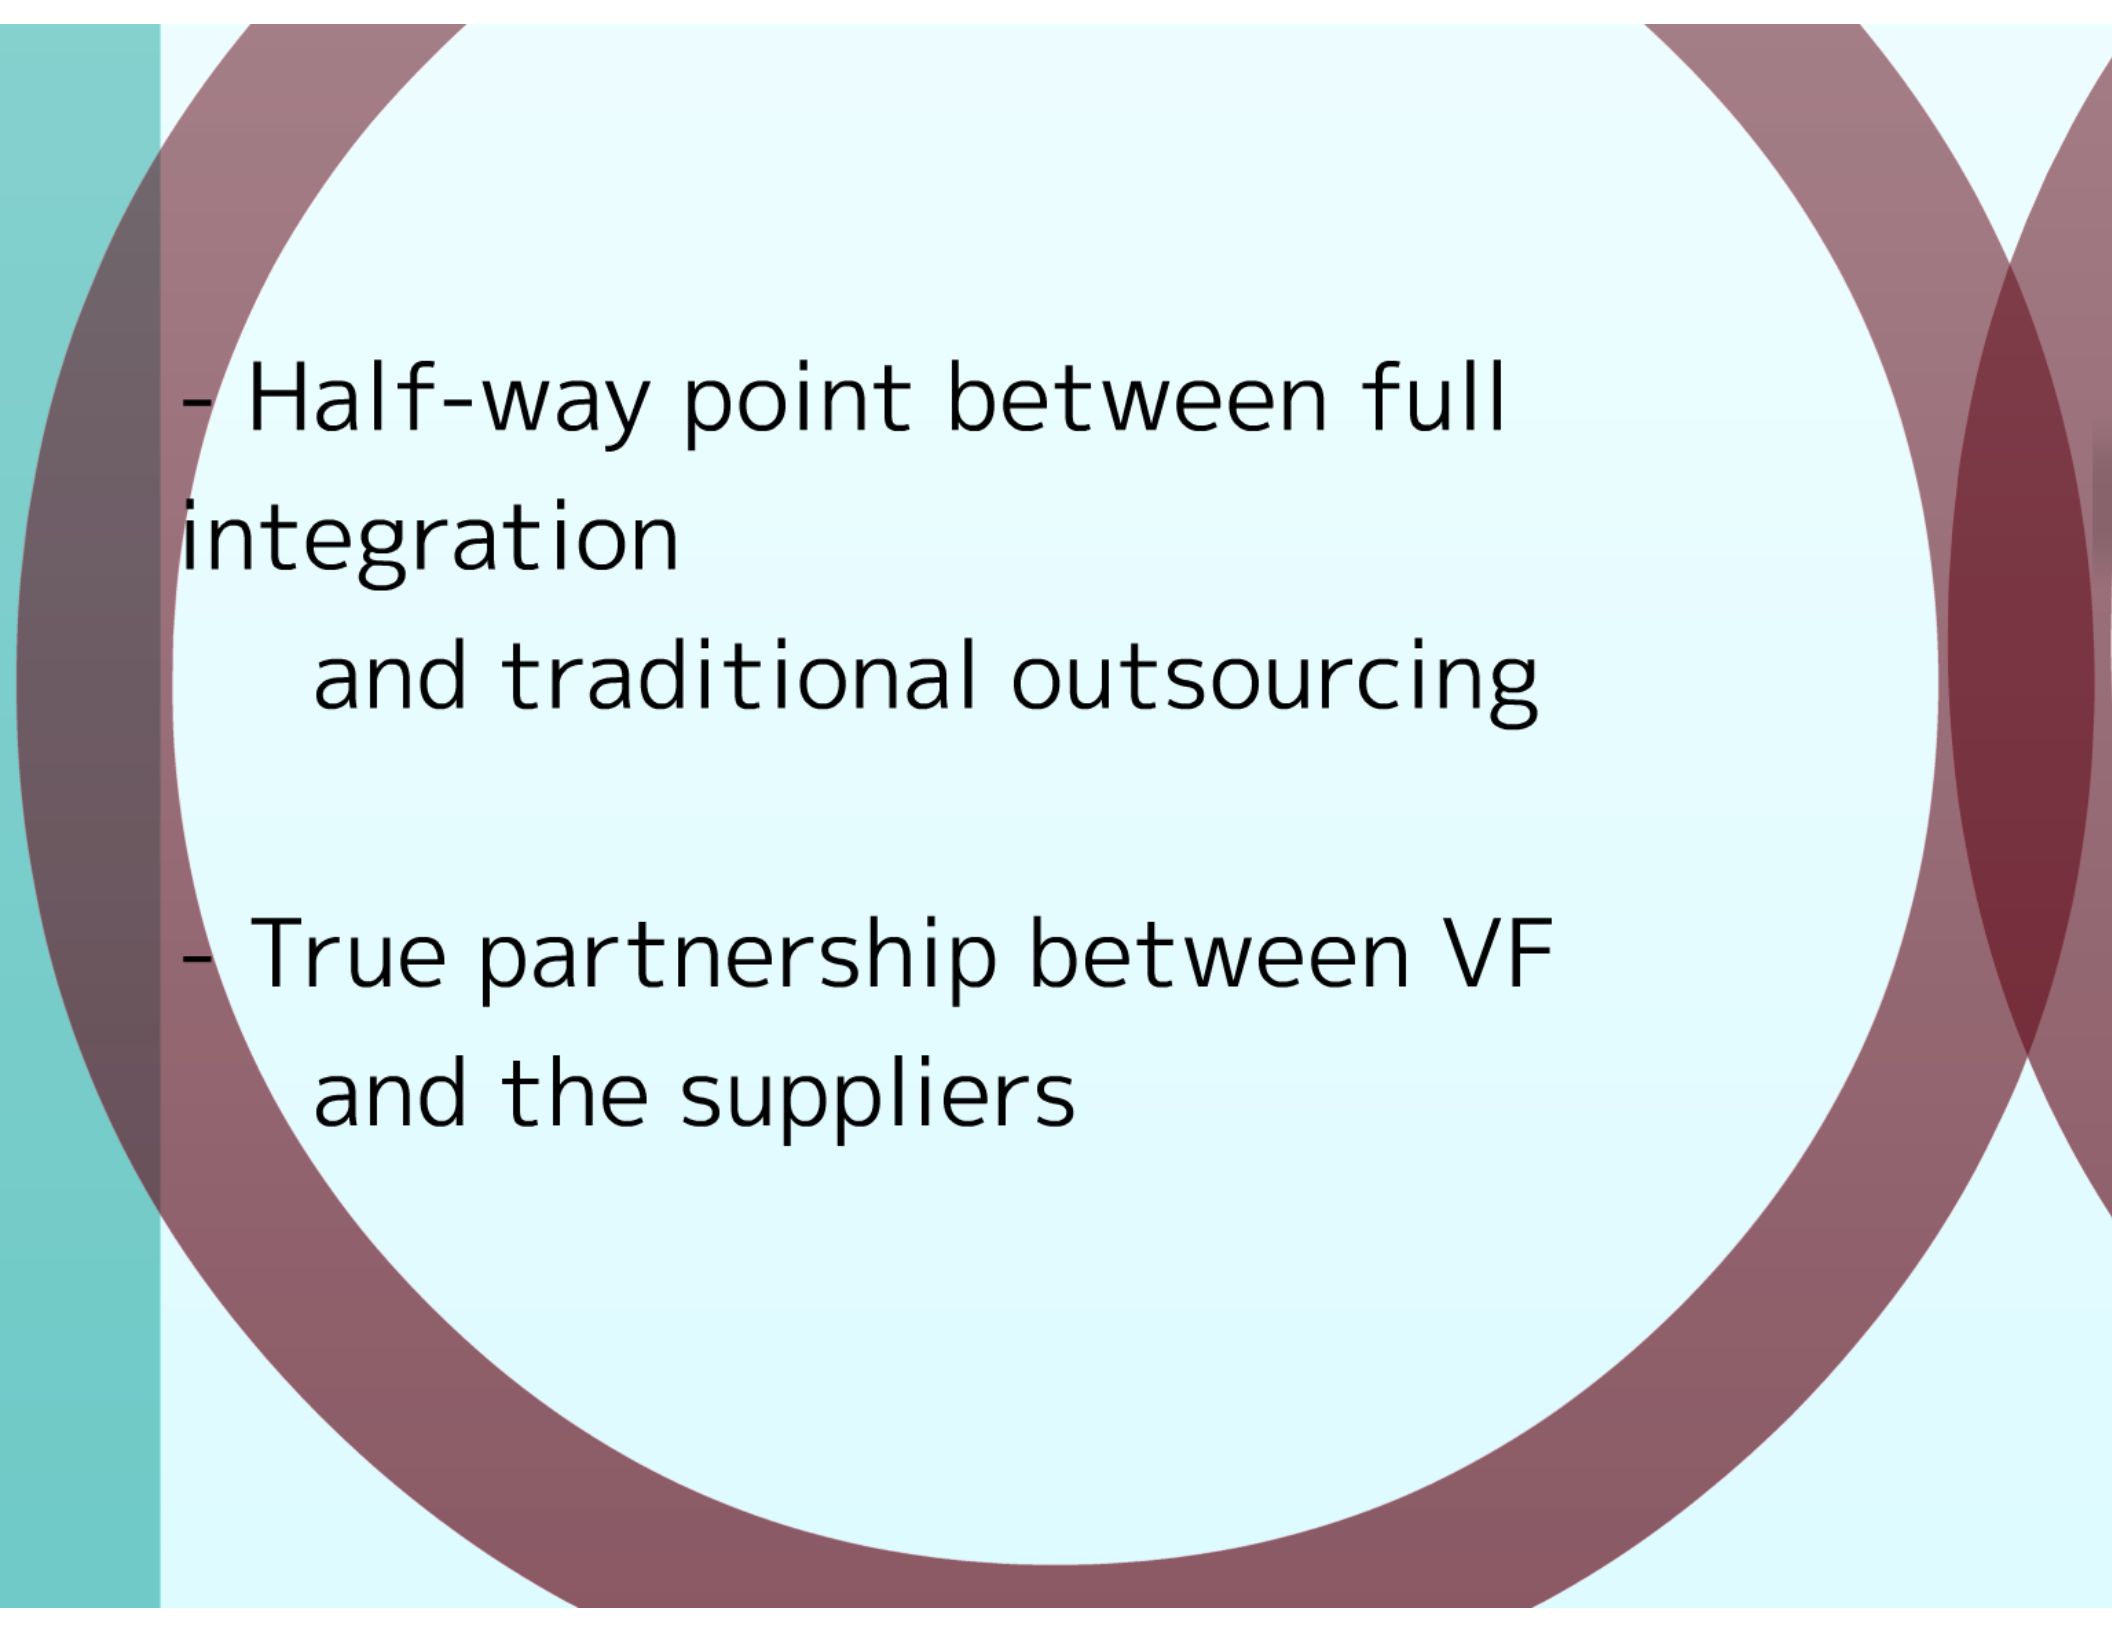

"Third way" sourcing

TheCaseSolutions.com

- Half-way point between full integration and traditional outsourcing
- True partnership between VF and the suppliers

- Agreement for a specific product line and commit to a volume forecast over a number of years
- Suppliers would set up production lines
- Develop production schedules jointly
- Work together on process improvement

- Suppliers would own the factory and the equipment and be responsible for managing the work force
- VF would utilize its purchasing capacity to help the suppliers
- Suppliers would be paid on a cost plus basis with a margin to meet its ROA requirements
