The pileup left tractor-trailers, box trucks and cars tangled together across several lanes of traffic and into the snow-covered median.

"It was definitely a whiteout, I couldn't see any further than probably two city blocks, "I saw brake lights and pulled off to the side. Somebody hit me when I was parked in the shoulder."

More than 50 people were transported to seven hospitals in central Pennsylvania and more than 70 people were transported to a shelter set up at the Jonestown Fire Station
