MALCOLM X

Malcolm X was a civil rights activist who went against racial segregation in the mid 1900s. Unlike the peaceful ways of Martin Luther King Jr., Malcolm X had much more violent ideologies. The Black Panther Party looked up to him and his ideas to guide their movement.

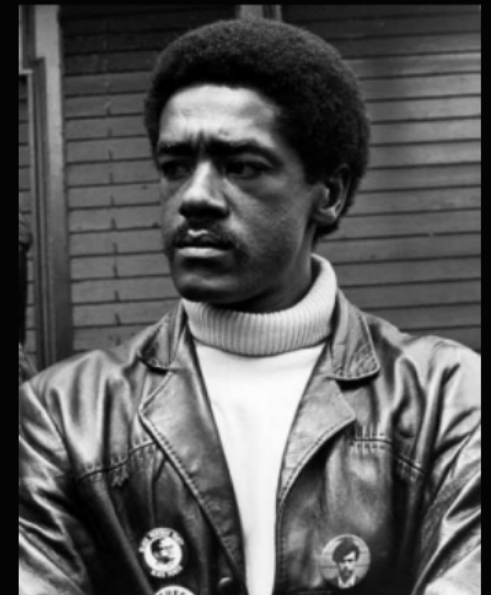

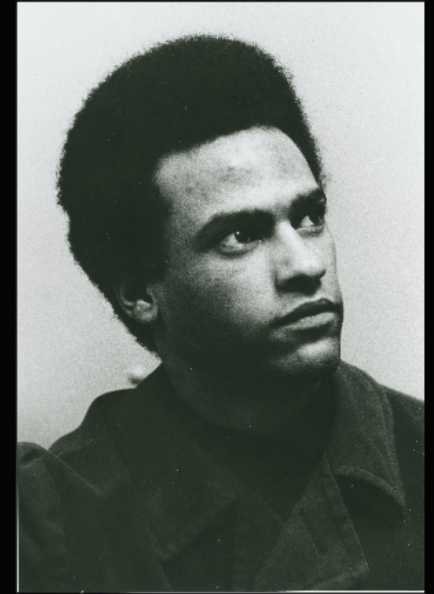

"Anybody who rapes, and plunders, and enslaves, and steals, and drops hell bombs on people... anybody who does these things is nothing but a devil."

-Malcolm X

HUEY NEWTON AND BOBBY SEALE

Thecasesolutions.com

Huey Newton and Bobby Seale had been long time friends who both admired the ideas of Malcolm X and Karl Marx. They both co-founded the Black Panther Party in 1966 because they were upset with the lack of protection in their African-American communities and neighborhoods. In 1967 they both started a newspaper "The Black Panther" to spread their ideas even more. By 1968 their ideas did spread to more than half of the country.

MULFORD BILL AND THE MARCH ON CAPITAL

- Prohibiting anyone from carrying a loaded gun in public.
- To counter this law which upset them greatly The Black Panther members decided to march the capital of California with loaded rifles and guns.
- They then began to read Executive Mandate 1, but were then forced out.
- President Reagan then signed The Mulford Act which gave the Panthers what they wanted and put them in the national limelight.

-Huey was arrested in 1968 for allegedly shooting Officer John Frey, but there are many different versions of the incident.

-Newton was then sentenced by the local Superior Court to 2-15 yrs.

- Then the "Free Huey" movement began which was fighting for Huey's freedom.

-The case was later brought back to trial, but was then dismissed.
