An essential requirement in a market as large, complex and bureaucratically unwieldy as Brazil, is to find a strong local partner. Liquid's local partner, Cohibra, comprises skilled agrarian specialists who are highly technically qualified and recognized as leaders in their field, not just throughout Brazil, but globally.

COCONUTS

The first investment project is a coconut plantation, which has already sold out. Based at Fazenda Lagoa Grande, in Flecheiras, 120km from the state capital Fortaleza, the project will be generating multi-year double-digit yields and land capital growth on behalf of investors. The investment structure has been designed with maximum security in mind, and income is currently based on the sale of the coconuts to Brazilian market buyers, including the local arm of multinational companies based in the country, such as Pepsico owned coconut water produces. The project will allow investors to profit from the rising demand for coconut-based products.

NEEM

Thecasesolutions.com

Our second investment project is a neem tree plantation. The neem tree (Azadirachta indica) is an evergreen tree, indigenous to South Asia, and grown across South East Asia. It lives for between 150-200 years and has medicinal properties, leading to it being referred to as the village pharmacy for its antibacterial, antiviral, antifungal, antiseptic, and antiparasitic properties. Originally we had considered neem simply as an organic pesticide and fertilizer on our coconut plantations. Yet the more we looked at the possibilities, the more we became excited by the commercial applications of the tree and its crop.
