INTRO

As a young man, Aaron Swartz was a prodigy. He was a brilliant student, a gifted programmer, and a passionate advocate for open access to information. He was a man who believed that knowledge should be shared, not hoarded. He was a man who believed that technology should be used to empower people, not to control them. He was a man who believed that the internet should be a place where everyone has a voice, not just a few. He was a man who believed that the world should be a better place, not just a more convenient one. He was a man who believed that the future should be bright, not just a more prosperous one.
