

Thecasesolutions.com

com

The Big 3 Roar Back

Thecasesolutions.com

Thecasesolutions.com

Literary Term #1

Thecasesolutions.com

An example of personification was found on page 175, paragraph 3 in Where the Red Fern Grows. The example is, "Walking back through the camp, I could feel the cold fingers of doubt squeezing my heart." This is an example of personification because it gives human quality's to an inanimate objects. This use of personification helped me to understand that Billy was feeling a lot of doubt and it felt as though the doubt was squeezing his heart, but it really wasn't because doubt does not have fingers.

Literary term #2

Thecasesolutions.com

An example of a simile was found on page 191, paragraph 8 in Where the Red Fern Grows. The example is, "Very seriously, Papa said, 'You know I have two mules down on my place. One is almost as big as a barn. The other one isn't much bigger than a jack rabbit, but that little mule can outpull the big one every time.'" This is an example of a simile because it uses the words like or as to show a comparison between two objects. This use of a simile helped me to understand that the bigger of the two mules Papa has is very big, but it's not as big as a barn.

Literary Term #3

Thecasesolutions.com

An example of an onomatopoeia was found on page 202, paragraph 3 Where the Red Fern Grows. The example is, "The tall slender cane around us rattled and swayed." This is an example of an onomatopoeia because it's a word formation of a sound. This use of an onomatopoeia helped me to understand the sound that the tall slender was making.

Literary Term #4

Thecasesolutions.com

An example of an alliteration was found on page 202, paragraph 3 in Where the Red Fern Grows. The example is, "I could hear the roar of the blizzard back in the thick timber of the bottoms." This is an example of an alliteration because it repeats the same starting sound.

Thecasesolutions.com

Thecasesolutions.com

