"People often say that they practice frugality. It is not a good quality. It is an excellent virtue when you get it right. They need to cut their spending. It is not to say they are not allowed to have things that are necessary and just. There seems to be a big disconnect of what they are allowed to have."

"Parents need their kids to be saved as well as educated."

Famous Quotes

"Too many people spend money they haven't earned to buy things they don't need to impress people they don't like." - Will Smith

"Money is a barometer of society's virtue." - Ayn Rand

We Are Going To Prove...

Money does not buy you happiness. True happiness comes from being content with the relationships that you share with other people and how you spend your time - every day in life.

Henry Jax's Storying...

"I don't have a one 'right' thing that you should do. I have one piece of advice: Don't ever make a bank. Get out there and get your hands dirty, and your hands will be dirty. It's not about the money."

Money Isn't Everything...

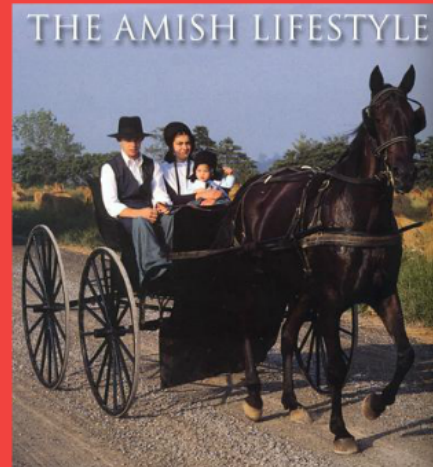

It can buy a bed - but not sleep
It can buy a clock - but not time
It can buy you a book - but not knowledge
It can buy you a position - but not respect
It can buy you medicine - but not health

Evidence suggests that a big payout won't make that much of a difference. Tom Stafford explains why: "Everyone wants more money, but is it ever really enough?"

- Once people get used to a certain amount of anything they generally tend to want more, and money is a prime example of what people can never seem to be satisfied with the amount that they acquire of it.

Saving the Youth...

- "People often say that their greatest aspiration in life is to be a good parent, but when asked how their money gets in the way, they mentioned their specific concerns. They were worried about how to teach their kids good values and give them money without being stereotyped as 'rich kids,' or 'trust fund babies.'"
- Parents want their kids to be raised as well as possible without being spoiled.

Riches Run Out...

We hear about them all the time...

Stars who are either

- > Addicted to alcohol
- > Addicted to drugs
- > Suicidal

- Studies show that on average one person that is extremely wealthy isn't any more content with life than someone who makes an "average living." If anything, they are more stressed out with the possibility of losing it all, than someone who doesn't long for more, causing unhappiness.
