Plot

Zen is a young actor who has been asked to play the role of a character in a movie. When he gets the role, he is very nervous and doesn't know what to do. He goes to a friend who is an actor and asks for advice. The friend tells him to be confident and to act like he knows what he is doing. Zen follows the advice and becomes a star.

Conflict/Theme

The conflict in this story is how Zen thinks he needs to be paid to do the role even though he is not a professional actor. The theme of this story is to always be yourself, even if everyone in your life and around you are telling you.

Views on the Book

My views on this book, Zen and the Art of Faking It, is that it is a good read for people ages 11 or older. Alan is a very interesting plot that everyone should read. I think the book is very good as does The Bay and Marin County being a very good place to live and something like "The Bay" something like this story, so all that good something is definitely very good.
