

THE SELFISH GIANT

Thecasesolutions.com

.....This story is about a giant who owned a beautiful garden that the children used to go and play after school, but this giant was selfish and a day after arriving home from his trip, a friend found the children playing in the garden.

Kan and lifted the great wall along, which posted a sign forbidding entry to people and they would be punished.

I LEARNED?

As we are with others, and life itself will be with us, we should always give without expecting anything in return because the destination charge of giving us what we deserve, we value the people who are with us because they are the ones that make us really valuable and loved.

8The child answered the giant that their injuries were due to love, itself before him and the boy said: one day you let me play in your garden now I'll take you to my paradise when children came to play the giant was died surrounded by white flowers.
