Causes to Greece's Crisis

The people of Greece have many causes to their current state. Some of the mistakes the Greek government made to lead them to the crisis are: they would provide free health care, free college, free food, and free housing help. The Greeks had short work days and work weeks were 4 days of work and 3 days of vacation/workless.

Solutions to Greece's Trouble

There are many possible ways to bring Greece out of the state it is in right now. One solution would be for the government to eliminate all things that are given to the Greeks for free. They could also convince the rest of the world to help them out. Another solution to their problem is to exit the Eurozone. The last solution is to borrow more money from other countries and then create more jobs. Then increase the work days and weeks. After that, the government would tax the people and pay off their debt.
