History

In 2006 Matt Damon was working on an expedition/documentary entitled Running the Sahara when he came up with the idea to use the project to raise money and awareness for clean water. The official foundation was named H2O Africa with Richard Klopp as launch Executive Director.

H2O Africa promoted organizations such as the United Nations Development Programme Clean Water Initiative, Living Water International, and the Millennium Promise project. In 2007 H2O Africa partnered with Ryan's Well Foundation.

In 2009 H2O Africa merged with WaterPartners to form Water.org

Projects

Water.org has active projects in countries all over the world.

Projects are demand-driven and assistance is provided to communities in the following ways:

- 1) Teaming up with local partners
- 2) Community water committees in charge of project scheduling, working with the partners, facilitating the hygiene education program, and operating the water and sanitation systems
- 3) Water credit initiative: granting loans to communities and individuals to take care of their water needs. When loans are repaid they can be redeployed to additional people in need of safe water.
