

ZETA Communities-Part B

Cleaning Up the Park

Gabriell Pitts

TheCaseSolution.com

Reflection Questions

What did you do for your service action? When did you do it? What were your specific role and action steps?

I went to my local park and cleaned up trash. I completed this October 20th, 2015. I planned the service plan and went with my mom to complete it.

What did you learn about the issue or problem you chose?

I learned that we do not take care of our local parks the way that we should.

Did you meet new people? How are these people important to your community?

No, I didn't.

Did the actual service turn out as you expected? Explain.

Yes, I was able to clean up the park and make it look cleaner than what it was.

Do you feel your action was valuable to the community? Explain why or why not.

I feel like it was valuable at that moment and time, but if people continue to litter, all nothing be done else, but then what I did will become void.

Was this service project a true example of fulfilling citizen responsibilities to the community and civic participation?
Discuss.

Yes, because it helps keep the local parks that everyone uses clean.

Reflection Questions Continued

What could you do differently in the future to make the service better?

I could get a group together to cover more ground.

What do other people, like trusted adults and classmates, think about your project? What have they said to you about it?

They thought it was a great idea and were happy to see a youth helping out in the community.

What can you do to help this service project grow and continue?

I can make it more public and organize it better to get more people involved.

In what ways has this service project affected you? Explain your responses.

It has made me realize that we as citizens need to do more in our community to keep it clean.

Will you continue with this service experience? Explain why or why not.

I will not be able to due to school and moving away next fall. Also, I have started volunteering at the local nursing home.

What tips would you give to classmates just starting their service projects?

To be organized and get a group together so that you are not doing it by yourself.

How was my project meaningful and valuable to the community?

This service project was important to the community because it has helped clean up one of our local parks and made it safer for children that are visiting it. By cleaning up the park I have made it where children can safely play and will not be picking trash up to put in their mouths because children have a tendency to put everything in their mouths. It also is an easy service project for the youth of the city to do so that they can get involved.

Posted by GABRIELL PITTS on October 24, 2015 at 11:00 AM

Thread: In my service project I went to our local park and cleaned up the trash that was around the area. I enjoyed cleaning up the park to make it safer for the smaller children.

Posted by GABRIELL PITTS on October 21, 2015 at 11:00 AM

Thread: This is similar to what I did. I think it's great because it helps clean up the environment and make it safer for local wildlife and the people that use the lands.

ZETA Communities-Part B

Cleaning Up the Park

Gabriell Pitts

TheCaseSolution.com

Reflection Questions

What did you do for your service action? When did you do it? What were your specific role and action steps?

I went to my local park and cleaned up trash. I completed this October 30th, 2015. I planned the service plan and went with my mom to complete it.

What did you learn about the issue or problem you chose?

I learned that we do not take care of our local parks the way that we should.

Did you meet new people? How are these people important to your community?

No, I didn't.

Did the actual service turn out as you expected? Explain.

Yes, I was able to clean up the park and make it look cleaner than what it was.

Do you feel your action was valuable to the community? Explain why or why not.

I feel like it was valuable at that moment and time, but if people continue to litter and nothing be done about it then what I did will become void.

Was this service project a true example of fulfilling citizen responsibilities to the community and civic participation? Discuss.

Yes, because it helps keep the local parks that everyone uses clean.

Reflection Questions Continued

What could you do differently in the future to make the service better?

I could get a group together to cover more ground.

What do other people, like trusted adults and classmates, think about your project? What have they said to you about it?

They thought it was a great idea and were happy to see a youth helping out in the community.

What can you do to help this service project grow and continue?

I can make it more public and organize it better to get more people involved.

In what ways has this service project affected you? Explain your responses.

It has made me realize that we as citizens need to do more in our community to keep it clean.

Will you continue with this service experience? Explain why or why not.

I will not be able to due to school and moving away next fall. Also, I have started volunteering at the local nursing home.

What tips would you give to classmates just starting their service projects?

To be organized and get a group together so that you are not doing it by yourself.

How was my project meaningful and valuable to the community?

This service project was important to the community because it has helped clean up one of our local parks and made it safer for children that are visiting it. By cleaning up the park I have made it where children can safely play and will not be picking trash up to put in their mouths because children have a tendency to put everything in their mouths. It also is an easy service project for the youth of the city to do so that they can get involved.

Posted by GABRIELL PITTS Sat Oct 31 14:08:45 2015

Thread: In my service project I went to our local park and cleaned up the trash that was around the area. I enjoyed cleaning up he park to make it safer for the smaller children.

Posted by GABRIELL PITTS Sat Oct 31 14:11:18 2015

Thread: This is similar to what I did. I think it's great because it helps clean up the environment and make it safer for local wildlife and the people that visit the beach.

