

Upper Canada Insurance

TheCaseSolutions.com

Upper Canada Insurance

TheCaseSolutions.com

Upper Canada

Language

The Upper Canadians
speak English.

Lower Canada

Language

The Lower Canadians
speak French.

TheCaseSolutions.com

Upper Canada

Location

In the early 1800's, Upper Canada was located in the same area as Eastern and Southern Ontario today.

Lower Canada

Location

In the early 1800's, Lower Canada was located in the same area as Quebec and the St. Lawrence River today

TheCaseSolutions.com

Upper Canada

Daily Life

They were developing into smaller communities. They would work side by side. Their life was quiet and dark.

Lower Canada

Daily Life

They cleared land, farmed, sold fur and timber, and they were lastly helping all the really poor people by keeping them safe and healthy.

TheCaseSolutions.com

Upper Canada

Government/Crown/Clergy

The Tories and The Reformers were two political groups in Upper Canada. The Tories were a group of powerful people and they defended tradition and opposed change.

Lower Canada

Government/Crown/Clergy

There was the:
Governor - British appointed
Legislative Council - had the power of veto and were friends of the governor
Legislative Assembly - voted by the citizens
Chateau Clique - Wealthy British and French who supported British rule
Parti Canadien - Wealthy and poor French

TheCaseSolutions.com

Upper Canada

Social Class

Social Class was everything and the lifestyle in Canada also tended to make people "more equal." The Upper Class left Britain and thought they would remain "privileged."

Lower Canada

Social Class

The Social Class in Lower Canada was prevented from having good land and they often had to work for the Upper Class.

TheCaseSolutions.com

Important People

Robert Gouley was a reformer who immigrated from Scotland and wanted to bring poor people from Britain to Upper Canada to farm. He is a moderate.

William Lyon Mackenzie was also a reformer from Scotland who used his newspaper to speak out the problems experienced by farmers and the Family Compact. He was considered a radical.

Sir Francis Bond Head was appointed lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada and was welcomed by the reformers.

TheCaseSolutions.com

What created the need for government reform in Upper and Lower Canada?

The poorer people wanted reform because most of the land in Northern Canada was owned by the rich and sold at high prices. They created their own party, ran for government (to reform), and won. The problems were the land speculators, rigged voting, and the government favoring the rich.

TheCaseSolutions.com