

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the situation.

Pittsburgh in the early 1900s.

The health issue: the often fatal lung disease. The air was a mix of smoke and dust that was being inhaled by many people. The word smog described the air, which was thick and brown. In 1873, 250 people passed away due to the smog.

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the situation.

Vegpro Group: Growing in Harmony, Spanish Version
TheCaseSolutions.com

More students are being taught to use the word "smog" in their writing. This is a good thing because it helps them to understand the problem and the solution. The word "smog" is a combination of "smoke" and "fog". It is a type of air pollution that is caused by smoke and fog. It is a problem because it is bad for people's health and the environment. The solution is to reduce the amount of smoke and fog that is released into the air. This can be done by using cleaner fuels and by reducing the amount of smoke and fog that is released from factories and cars.

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the situation.

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the situation.

Industrial cities need factories,
work forces, reliable transportation,
warehouses, offices, an gas and grocery stores. New York was a leading industry city in the late 1800s.
TheCaseSolutions.com

Vegpro Group: Growing in Harmony, Spanish Version

TheCaseSolutions.com

Some of the most important concepts in business are the ones that are most difficult to teach. TheCaseSolutions.com

During the 1800s Europe and the United States experienced rapid growth, which was otherwise none as urbanization: the growth in the proportion of people living in towns and cities.

TheCaseSolutions.com

Cities back in the 1800s

Some cities just focused on industrial work or meat packing, just depended on where you lived.

TheCaseSolutions.com

Industrial cities need factories, work forces, reliable transportation, warehouses, offices, and gas and grocery stores. New York was a leading industry city in the late 1800s.

TheCaseSolutions.com

In factories, there was raw material that was sent so they could produce products and then send to buyers across the country.

In the cities they used trains, which ran on steam, but then they converted to electricity ( it was better for the air).

TheCaseSolutions.com

TheCaseSolutions.com

Little kids mending broken thread.

Meat packaging was big in Chicago. Chicago grew from 30 thousand in 1850 to 1.7 million in 1900. They increased the cities population by over 1.67 million! This was all due to the people who came from farms, little towns, and over the seas looking for a job. TheCaseSolutions.com