

Piracy in China

Thecasesolutions.com

Piracy in China

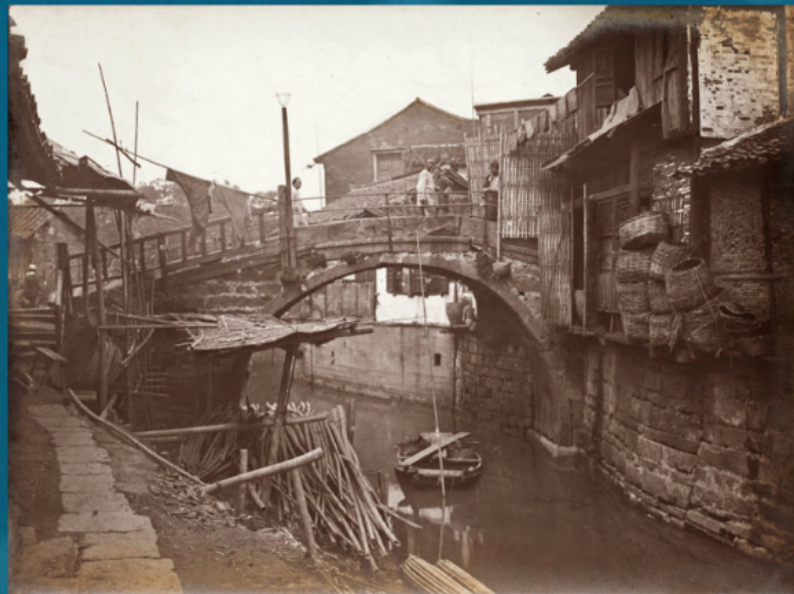

Thecasesolutions.com

- Chiang Kai-shek (anti-communist) receives support from U.S.
- Communists are led by Mao Zedong
- Both sides fight against Japan during World War II.
- Anti-Communist forces defeated and forced to Taiwan
- Promise of land reform makes Communists popular; nationalists ignore issue.

Thecasesolutions.com

Before the People's Republic

Thecasesolutions.com

War leads to economic exploitation without political takeover

- British concessions: immunity from prosecution, low tariffs, port cities
- Other Western nations force similar treaties
- "Spheres of influence"-countries get areas for ports, preferential treatment.

Thecasesolutions.com

Through 1800s, China interacts with West on own terms.

- Long history of contact (2000+ years)
- Chinese demand silver for luxury goods

Thecasesolutions.com

Drugs: opium – product chosen to correct trade imbalance

- Made from poppies, highly addictive
- Purchased in India, sold in China at high mark-up
- Triangle of trade: acquisition of luxury goods without silver drain
- Chinese government tries to prohibit trade
- The British force acceptance – defeat China in Opium Wars (1839-42, 1856-60)

Thecasesolutions.com

War leads to economic exploitation without political takeover

- British concessions: immunity from prosecution, low tariffs, port cities
- Other Western nations force similar treaties
- “Spheres of influence” – countries get areas for ports, preferential treatment.

Thecasesolutions.com

Indirect imperialism results in collapse of the Chinese government

- Qing dynasty ruled from 1644-1912
- Imperialism undermined government
- Emperor resigns after rebellion in 1912

Thecasesolutions.com

1912-1949: Struggle between communist and anti-communist (nationalist) forces

- Chiang Kai-Shek (anti-communist) receives support from U.S.
- Communists are led by Mao Zedong
- Both sides fight against Japan during World War II.
- Anti-Communist forces defeated and forced to Taiwan
- Promise of land reform makes Communists popular; nationalists ignore issue.

Thecasesolutions.com

Government tries to stabilize economy, promote communist policies (1949-1958)

- Land transfer peasants - "landlord" class gone
- Gradual nationalization of businesses
- Five-year plans (1953-1958) to develop industry

The People's Republic (1949-Present)

Thecasesolutions.com

Mao Zedong launches 'Great Leap Forward' (1958-1961)

- Mao Zedong's idea: "let the people's imagination run wild"
- "Great Leap Forward" - 1958-1961
- Goal: to overtake Britain by 1968
- Failure: famine - 60 million deaths

Mao Zedong launches the 'Great Cultural Revolution' (1966-1976)

- Launched against "capitalist roaders" inside outside the government
- Started by groups of Chinese teenagers (Red Guards)
- Traditional culture, habits, ideas suspect (and anyone with an education e.g. teachers, cultural objects destroyed, schools closed, cultural people exiled)
- Revolution dies down in early 1970s, ends after Mao's death in 1976

Contemporary Issues

- Aggression in the South China Sea
- String of Pearls Theory
- Hong Kong 'Umbrella' protests of 2014
- Taiwan
- US Tariffs, 2018

Chinese Leaders have rejected democratic reforms (1976-Present)

- People want free elections and individual rights (e.g. freedom of speech, press)
- Movement peaks in May-June 1989 - Tiananmen Square
- Government crackdown

Chinese leaders adopt capitalist policies to support development (1976-Present)

- Changing Mindset
- Mao Zedong - "Politics is the most important" (communist principles determine government policy)
- Deng Xiaoping - "It does not matter whether a cat is black or white as long as it catches mice" (adopt capitalist principles if they work)