Increase The Foreign Aid Spending Why?

*If we keep on helping other countries that are in need they would feel like they owe Canada a favor and that would mean that when the time comes and Canada is in need of help the countries that we just helped will return the favor.

*By helping countries we could establish a great relationship with them and be able to use some of their lands to gather resources that is valuable.

*Canada is one of the huge countries and a lot of people thinks that Canadians are generous and compassionate people, but in a survey of top country donor on 2015 Canada is ranked 14th of 23 Aid Donor Countries.

*Since 1970 Canada made a promise that they will aid the poorest countries and while they have kept their promise, 0.70% of Canada's National Income was also promised to be achieved and we are only at 0.35% of the National Income Since the government in 2010 froze the budget aid.

*You may have known or not about the Wall Street Meltdown, rising fuel prices and climate disasters sent food prices skyrocketing, further starving the poor people, this means that Canada needs to take action and fulfill our promise that was made not only once but a bunch of times

One fact about U.S.A they are helping out in foreign aid spending far more than Canada

One of the top countries that has one of the highest amount in foreign aid spending is U.S.A totalling In 31.5 Billion Dollars and Canada's Budget is 4.9 Billion Dollars Not even half of U.S.A spending.

Decrease The Foreign Aid Spending Why?

*Instead of increasing foreign aid spending why not just make a fairer and cheaper trade to poor countries that they will be happy with such as we will give them a 5 year supply of food if they offer us a fair amount of land which where we can collect resources.

*If we increase the foreign aid budget what would happen to Canada we have to think about the people that are homeless, poor and sick in Canada.

*The budget can also be put in to other good use such as developing schools, hospitals and research of diseases (HIVs, Aids) that exist in the poor countries.

*Canada's current budget right now is 4.9 Billion Dollars it looks enough for me but we need to decrease it just a little bit so that Canadians don't need to pay as much in taxes.

View Of The Three Political Party

Conservative:

- *The Conservative party wants to focus their aid on a few specific areas such as education and health
- *Sadly to say they have promised to untie all aid in the next 5 years

NDP:

- *The NDP have not yet released a comprehensive aid policy, but they said that they are gonna present a plan so that it will be able to provide better aid, forgive immoral debt, fight controllable disease and make trade fairer to poor countries.
- *Meeting the 0.70% National Income Promise Budget
- *Increasing Foreign Aid, mostly focusing on alleviating poverty and Diseases that have spread on poor countries.
- *Ensuring that by providing assistance Canada will not want anything in exchange such as public resources, assets and services

Green:

- *They want to reach the official development aid target 0.70% by 2016. They believe that with this funds it will make poverty a history, cure diseases, foster democracy, and support sustainable economies
- *To restore Canada's peacekeeping role and help to build a UN force to respond to conflict and climate changes
- *Provide antiretroviral drugs to African countries to help fight HIV/Aids
- *Stopping the genocide in Darfur, and increasing pressure on china to end its alleged assistance in the genocide
