

Analysis of the mergers with Women's Hospital & Faulkner Hospital Harvard Case Solution & Analysis

Analysis of the mergers with Women's Hospital & Faulkner Hospital Harvard Case Solution & Analysis

Originally Four Different Hospitals

- Boston Lying-In Hospital

- In 1832 it was one of the nation's first maternity hospitals, opened its doors to women who could not afford medical care

- Free Hospital For Women

- In 1875 it was founded for poor women who had diseases pertaining to their sex or who were in need of surgical aid

- Peter Brent Brigham Hospital

- Opened in 1913 in order to care for the improvised thanks to a donation from Peter Bent Brigham

- Robert B. Brigham Hospital

- Founded in 1914 from a donation from Peter Bent Brigham's nephew, Robert, opened to serve patients with arthritis and other joint diseases

Four Original Hospitals

Boston Lying-in Hospital

Free Hospital for Women

Peter Bent Brigham Hospital

Robert B. Brigham Hospital

Combination

In 1966, the Boston Lying-In Hospital and the Free Hospital for Women combined to form the Boston Hospital for Women. In 1980 three of Boston's oldest and most prestigious Harvard Medical School teaching hospitals - the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, the Robert Breck Brigham Hospital, and the Boston Hospital for Women – merged to form Brigham and Women's Hospital.

Affiliate and Training Center

- After the combination of all the hospitals it became affiliated with Harvard Medical School as a teaching center for upcoming doctors and nurses.
- BWH is an exceptional training ground for physicians, nurses, and other health professionals.
- They have about 1,100 trainees (from all over the world) in over 140 of their revered training programs.
- Also allowing access to Harvard Medical School students to go through rotations in all of their programs

Brigham and Women's Training

Services

- The hospital includes 16 different clinical departments
- Known for their excellence of cancer, cardiovascular, neuroscience, orthopedics and arthritis, and women's health center.
- BWH is committed to providing patients with the safest, highest-quality, most-satisfying care possible.