

BIBLE "The Old Testament and the New" Harvard Case Solution & Analysis

TheCaseSolutions.com

Introduction

While the Bible is a vast and complex work, it is divided into two main parts: the Old Testament and the New Testament. The Old Testament is the collection of books written by Jews, and the New Testament is the collection of books written by Christians. The Bible is a central text for many religions and is considered a source of moral and spiritual guidance.

Differences

The Old Testament prophets related to the coming of Christ, although not fully detailed, contain a certain measure of ambiguity that is cleared up in the New Testament. For example, the prophet Isaiah spoke of the death of the Messiah (Isaiah 53) and the establishment of the Messiah's kingdom (Isaiah 60) with no clear concern for the knowledge of the true events — no hint that the suffering and the final one (which might be separated by centuries). In the New Testament, it becomes clear that the Messiah would have two advents: in the first He suffered and died (and rose again), and in the second He will establish His kingdom.

Similarities

The Old Testament and the New Testament are both part of the Bible, and they share many similarities. Both testaments contain stories of God's relationship with His people, and both contain teachings and laws. The Old Testament is written in Hebrew, and the New Testament is written in Greek. Both testaments are considered sacred texts by many religions.

Sources

- 1. Bible
- 2. Bible
- 3. Bible

Introduction

While the Bible is a unified book, there are differences between the Old Testament and the New Testament. In many ways, they are complementary. The Old Testament is foundational; the New Testament builds on that foundation with further revelation from God. The Old Testament establishes principles that are seen to be illustrative of New Testament truths. The Old Testament contains many prophecies that are fulfilled in the New. The Old Testament provides the history of a people; the New Testament focus is on a Person. The Old Testament shows the wrath of God against sin (with glimpses of His grace); the New Testament shows the grace of God toward sinners (with glimpses of His wrath).

Differences

The Old Testament prophecies related to the coming of Christ, although incredibly detailed, contain a certain amount of ambiguity that is cleared up in the New Testament. For example, the prophet Isaiah spoke of the death of the Messiah (Isaiah 53) and the establishing of the Messiah's kingdom (Isaiah 26) with no clues concerning the chronology of the two events—no hints that the suffering and the kingdom-building might be separated by millennia. In the New Testament, it becomes clear that the Messiah would have two advents: in the first He suffered and died (and rose again), and in the second He will establish His kingdom.

Similarities

The Old Testament prophecies related to the coming of Christ, although incredibly detailed, contain a certain amount of ambiguity that is cleared up in the New Testament. For example, the prophet Isaiah spoke of the death of the Messiah (Isaiah 53) and the establishing of the Messiah's kingdom (Isaiah 26) with no clues concerning the chronology of the two events—no hints that the suffering and the kingdom-building might be separated by millennia. In the New Testament, it becomes clear that the Messiah would have two advents: in the first He suffered and died (and rose again), and in the second He will establish His kingdom.

Sources

- <https://prezi.com/r1l9cqphqtga/edit/#0>
- <https://www.youtube.com/>
- <https://google.com>
- <http://www.gotquestions.org/difference-old-new-testaments.html>
- <https://www.raptureready.com/faq/faq563.html>
- The Bible

BIBLE "The Old Testament and the New" Harvard Case Solution & Analysis

TheCaseSolutions.com

Introduction

With a Bible that contained several different books, the Old Testament and the New Testament were written by different authors. The Old Testament was written by Jewish authors, and the New Testament was written by Christian authors. The Old Testament was written in Hebrew, and the New Testament was written in Greek. The Old Testament was written between approximately 1200 BC and 400 BC, and the New Testament was written between approximately 30 AD and 100 AD.

Differences

The Old Testament prophets related to the coming of Christ, although not fully detailed, contain a certain measure of ambiguity that is cleared up in the New Testament. For example, the prophet Isaiah spoke of the death of the Messiah (Isaiah 53) and the establishment of the Messiah's kingdom (Isaiah 60) with no clear concern for the chronology of the two events – so long that the suffering and the kingdom building might be separated by centuries. In the New Testament, it became clear that the Messiah would have two advents: in the first He suffered and died (and rose again), and in the second He will establish His kingdom.

Similarities

The Old Testament prophets related to the coming of Christ, although not fully detailed, contain a certain measure of ambiguity that is cleared up in the New Testament. For example, the prophet Isaiah spoke of the death of the Messiah (Isaiah 53) and the establishment of the Messiah's kingdom (Isaiah 60) with no clear concern for the chronology of the two events – so long that the suffering and the kingdom building might be separated by centuries. In the New Testament, it became clear that the Messiah would have two advents: in the first He suffered and died (and rose again), and in the second He will establish His kingdom.

Sources

- 1. The Bible
- 2. The Bible
- 3. The Bible

