

Currents

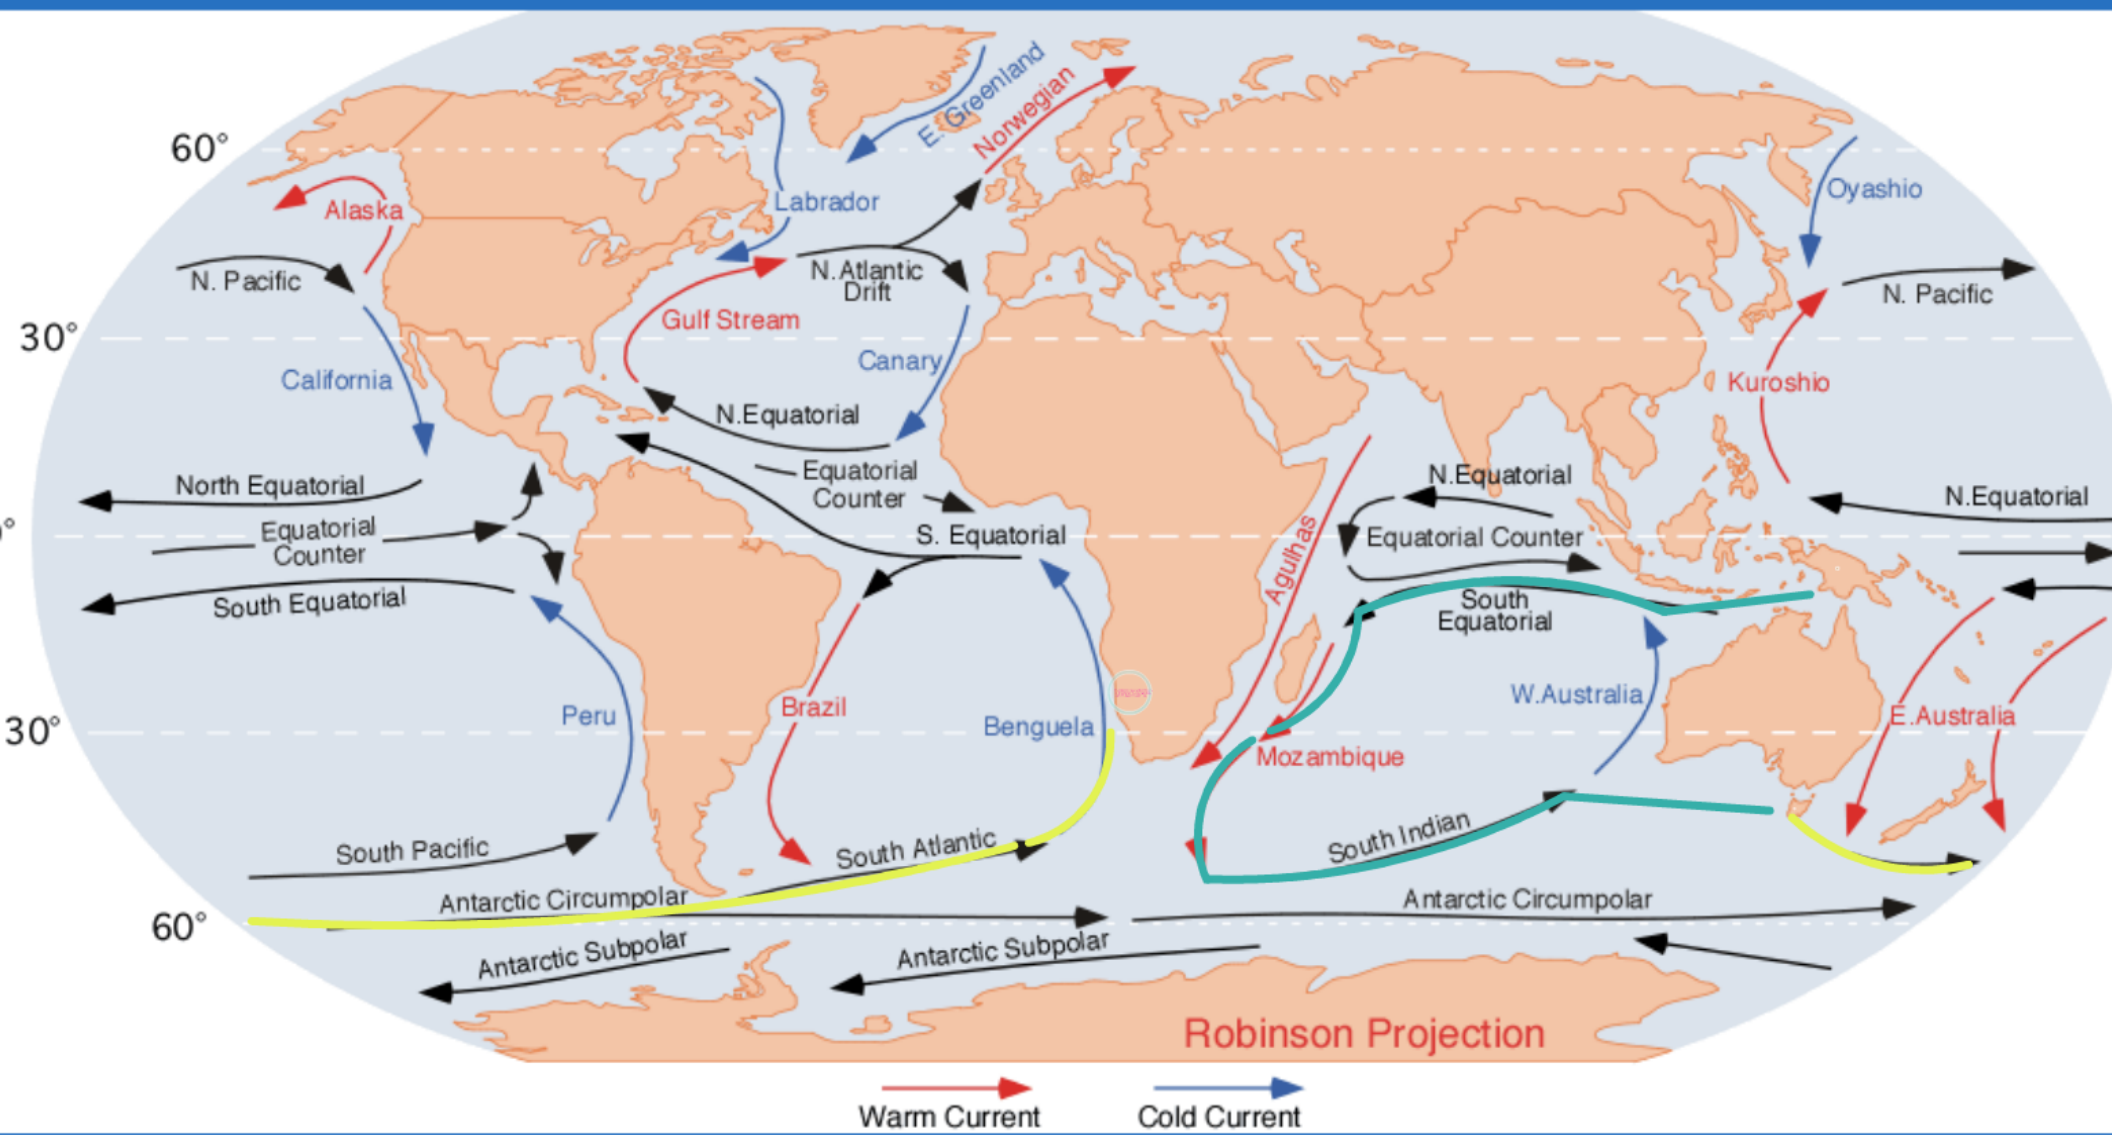

...THAT THE BOTTLE TOOK	...THAT THE BOAT TOOK
The currents that the bottle took to get to South Africa from Tasmania were the Antarctic Circumpolar, the South Atlantic, and the Benguela currents.	To get from New Guinea (where they were last seen) to Tasmania (where they are stranded), the Smith Family took the

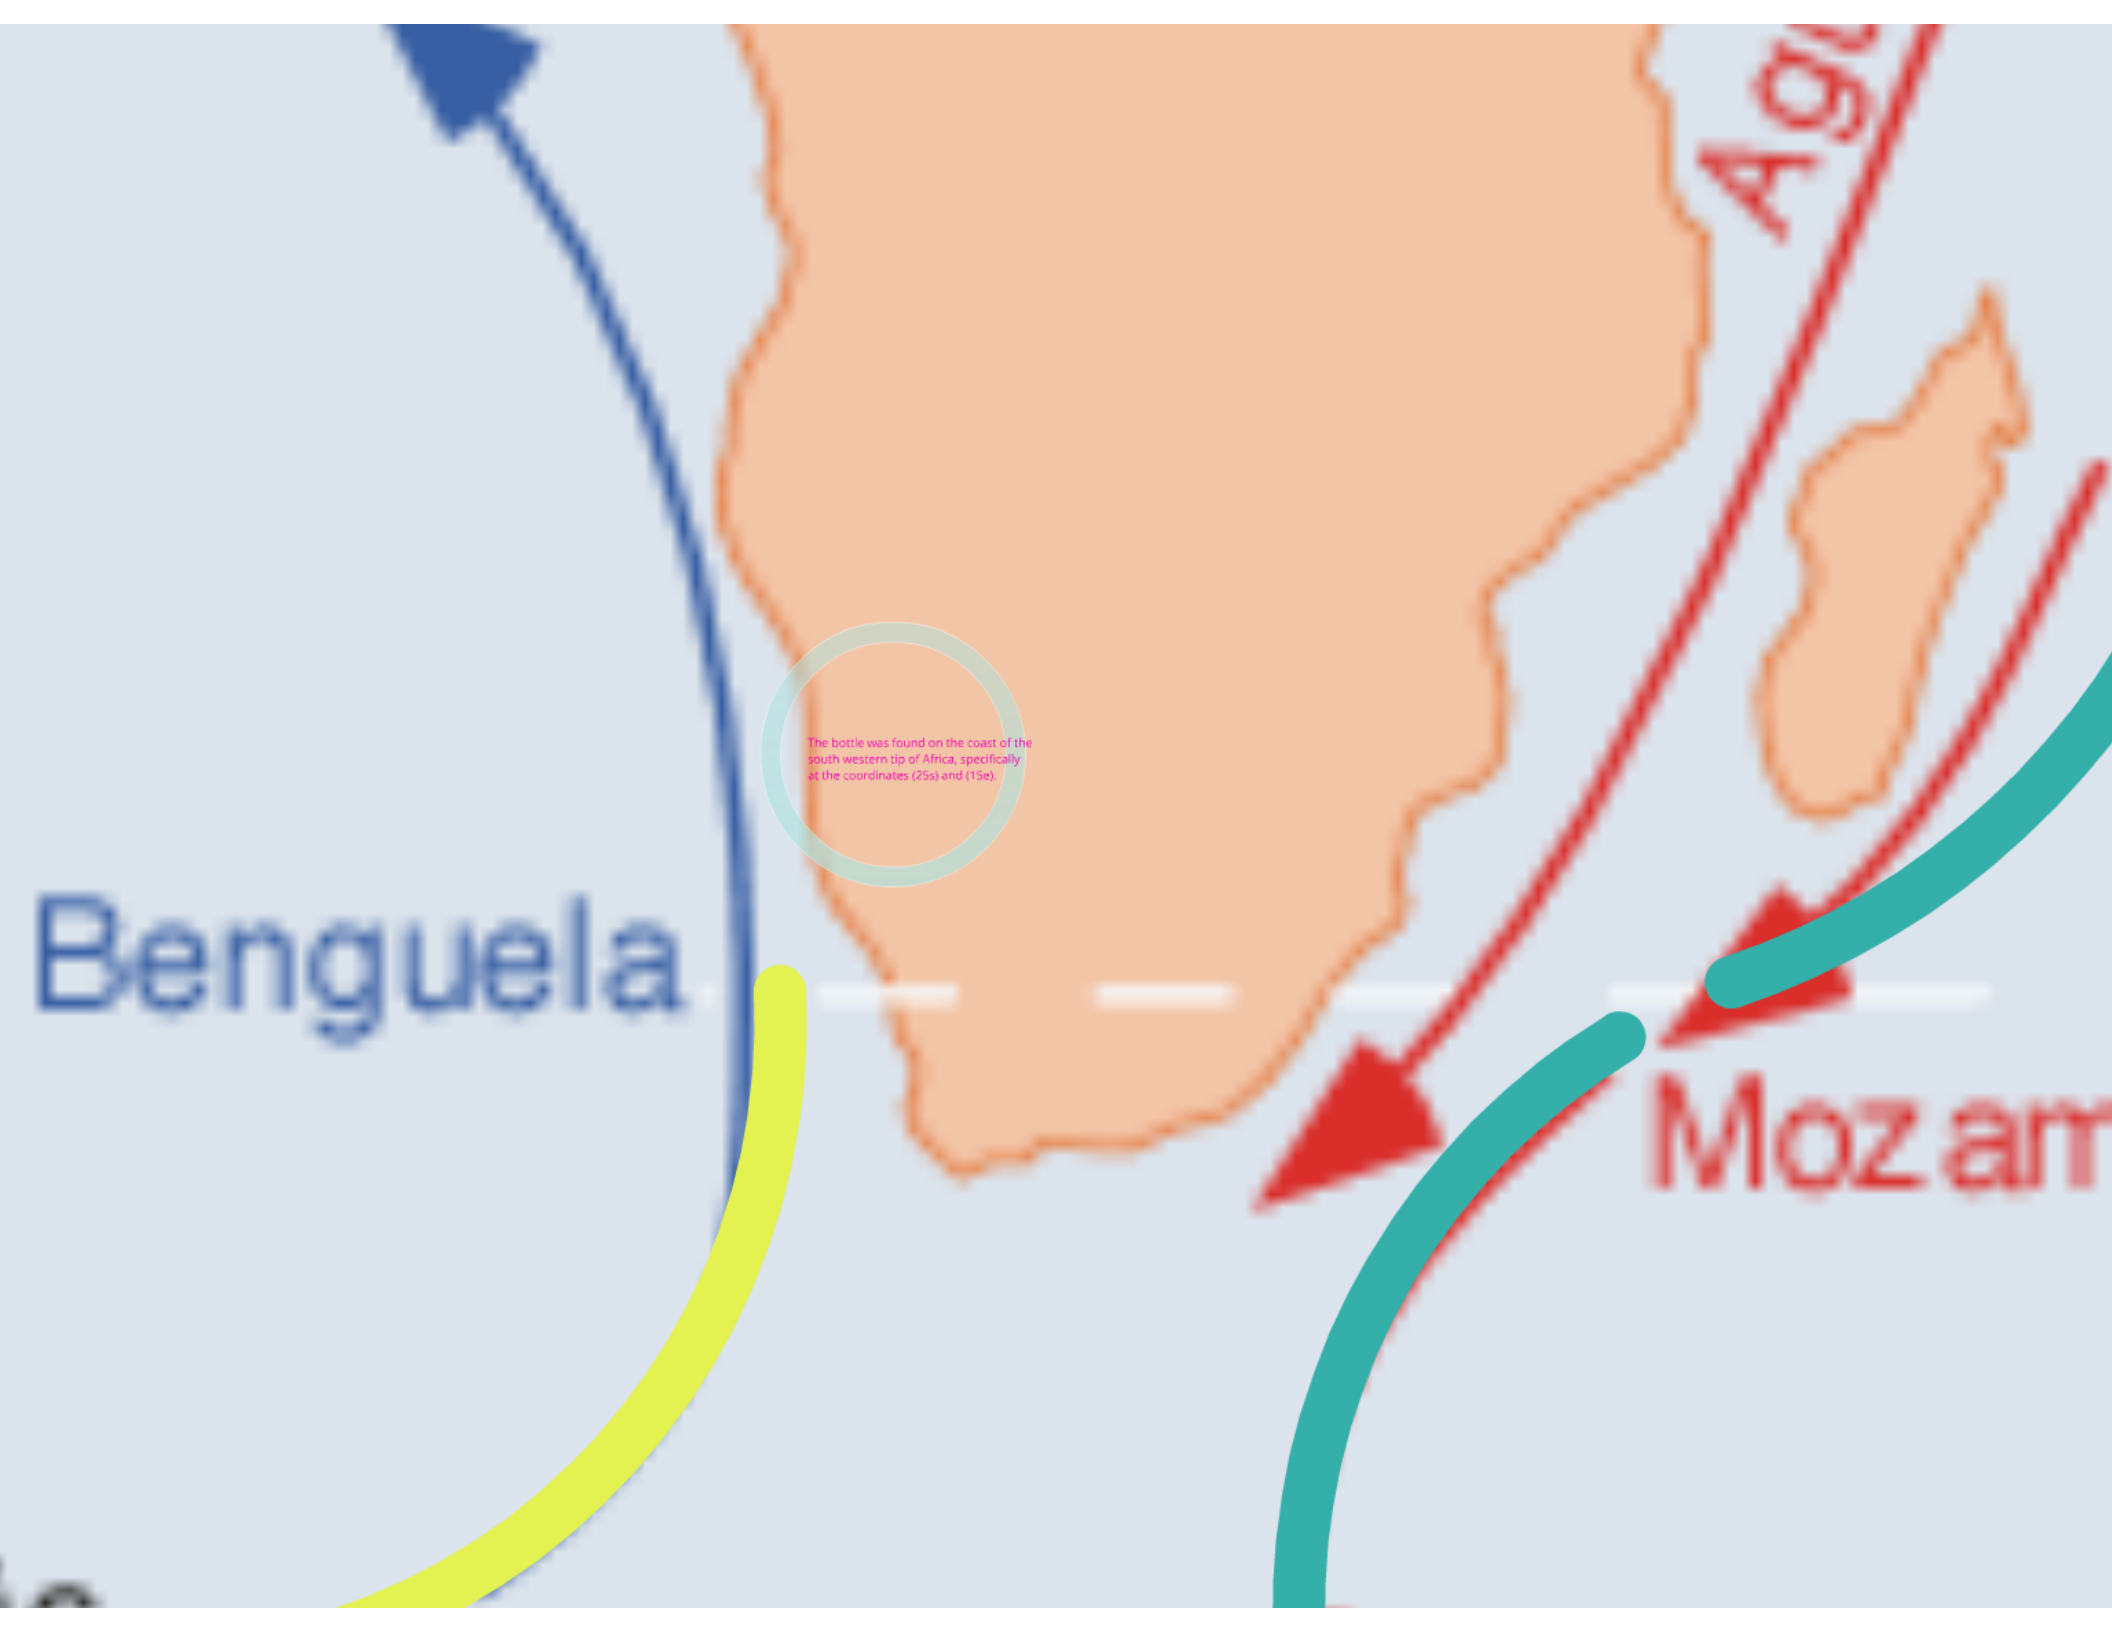

TheCaseSolutions.com

Smith
Family Financial Planning
Harvard
Case
Solution
&
Analysis

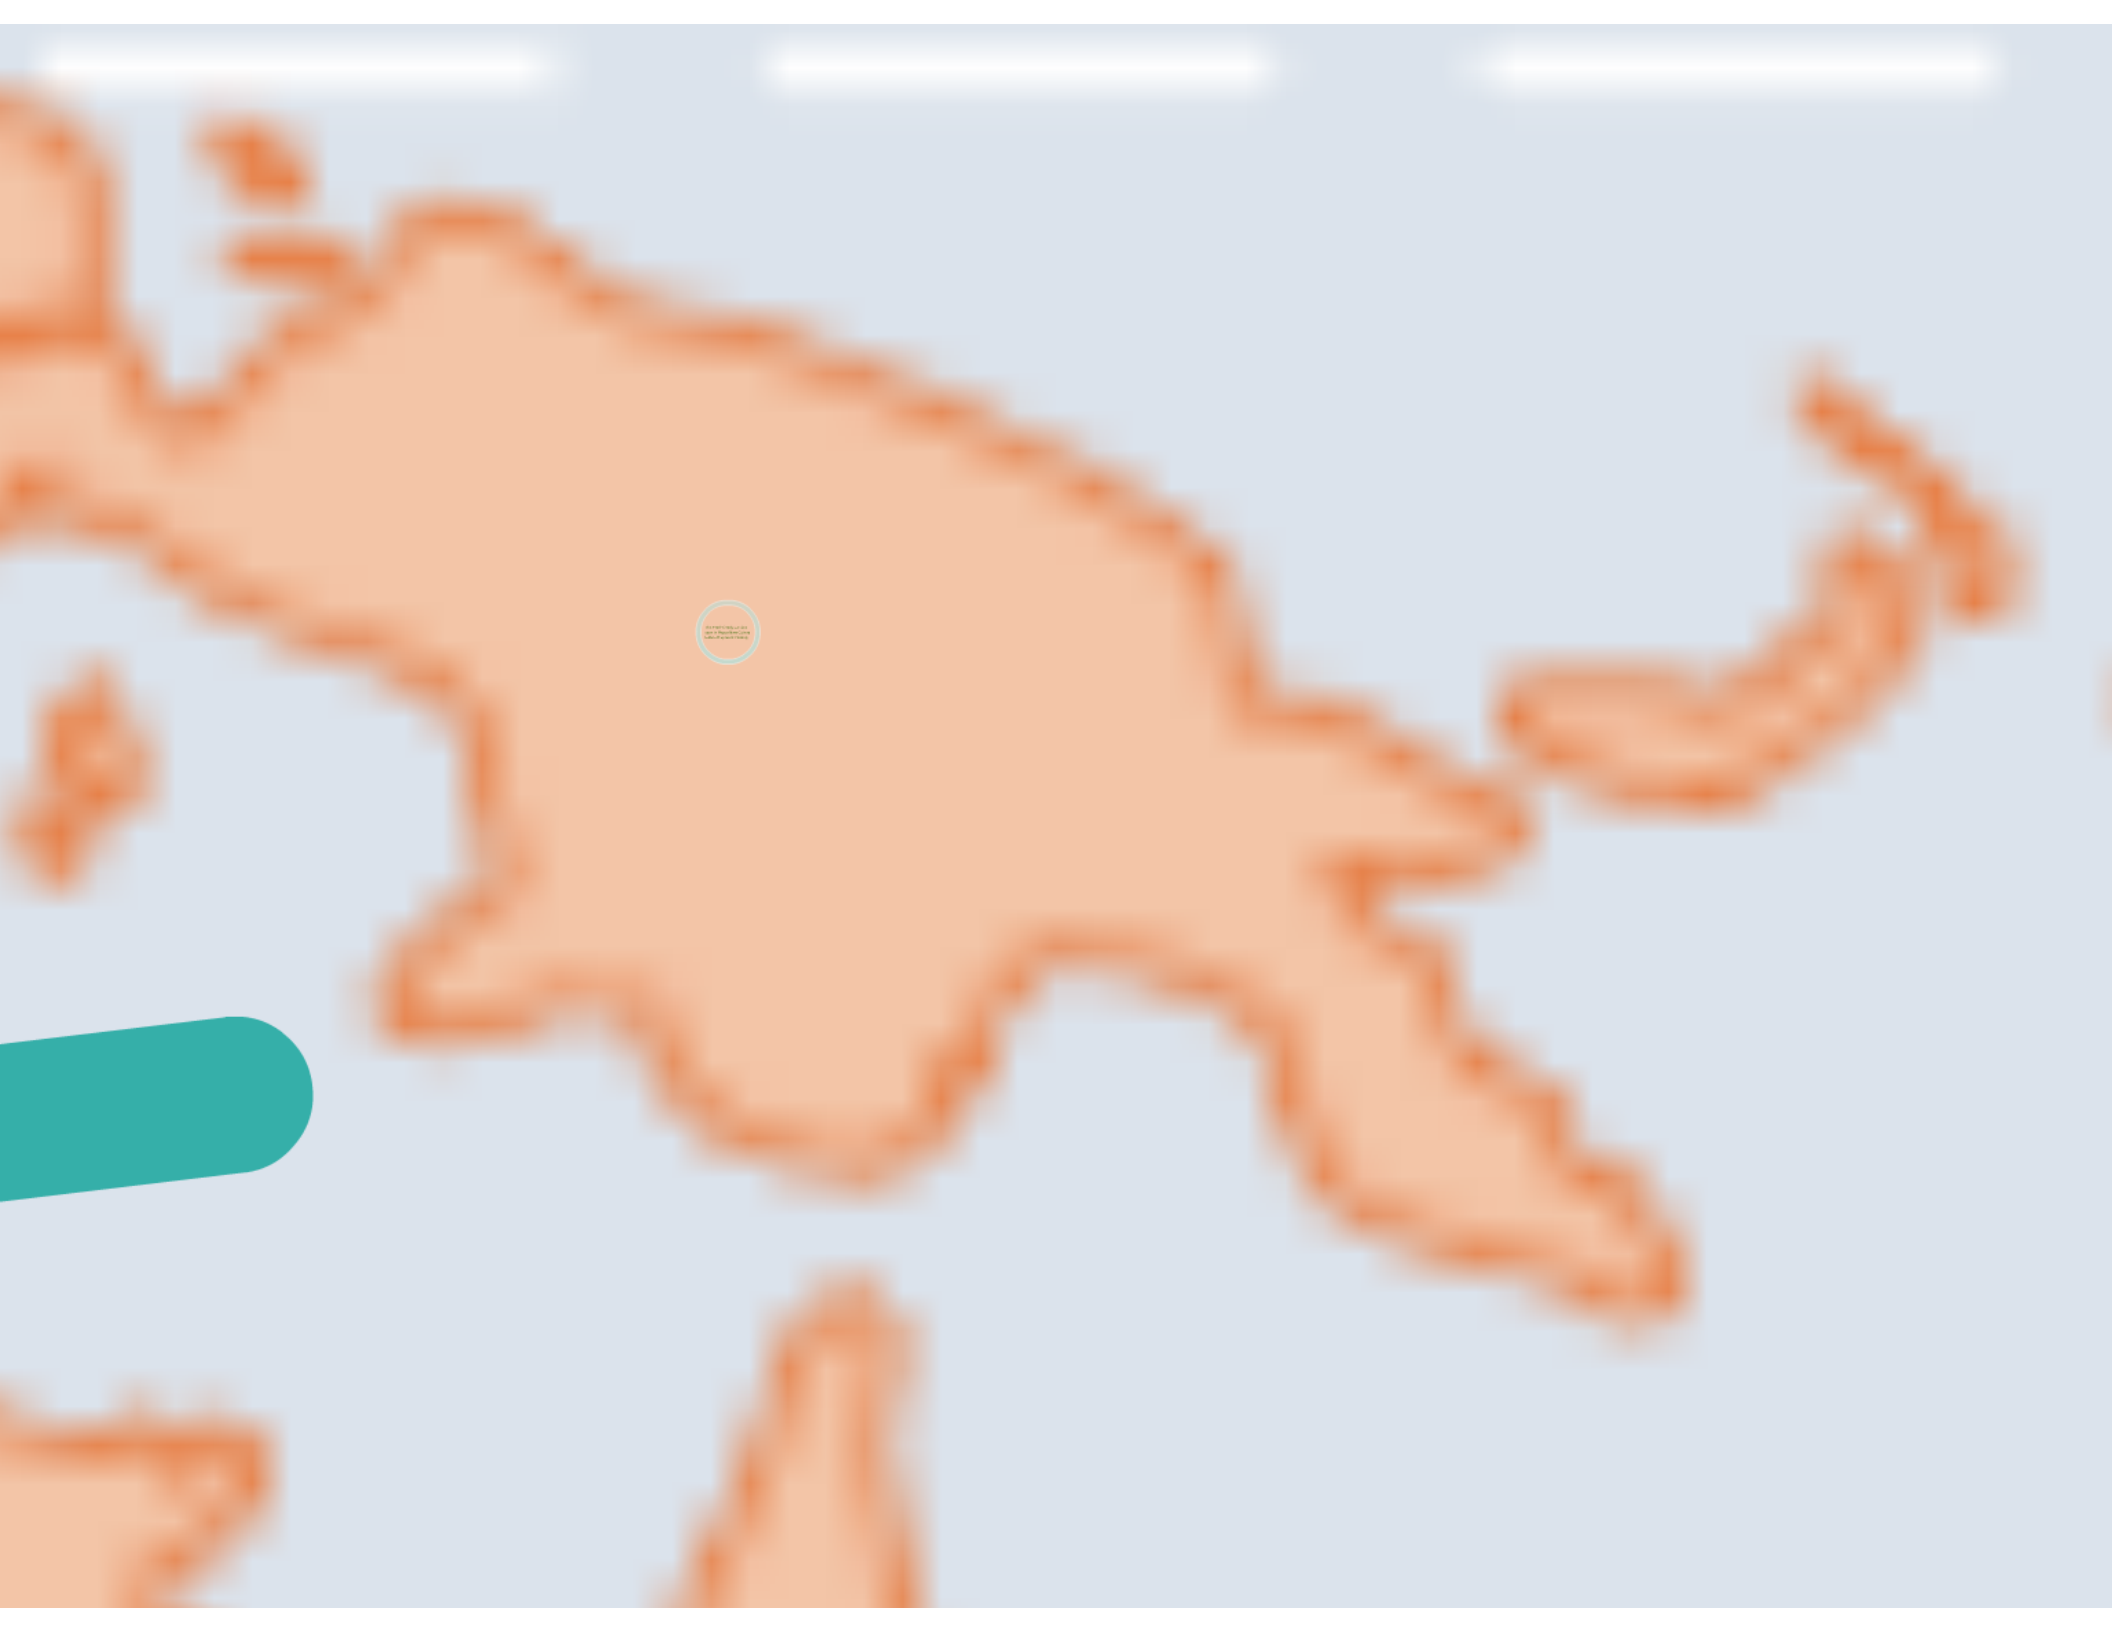

The bottle was found on the coast of the south western tip of Africa, specifically at the coordinates (25s) and (15e).

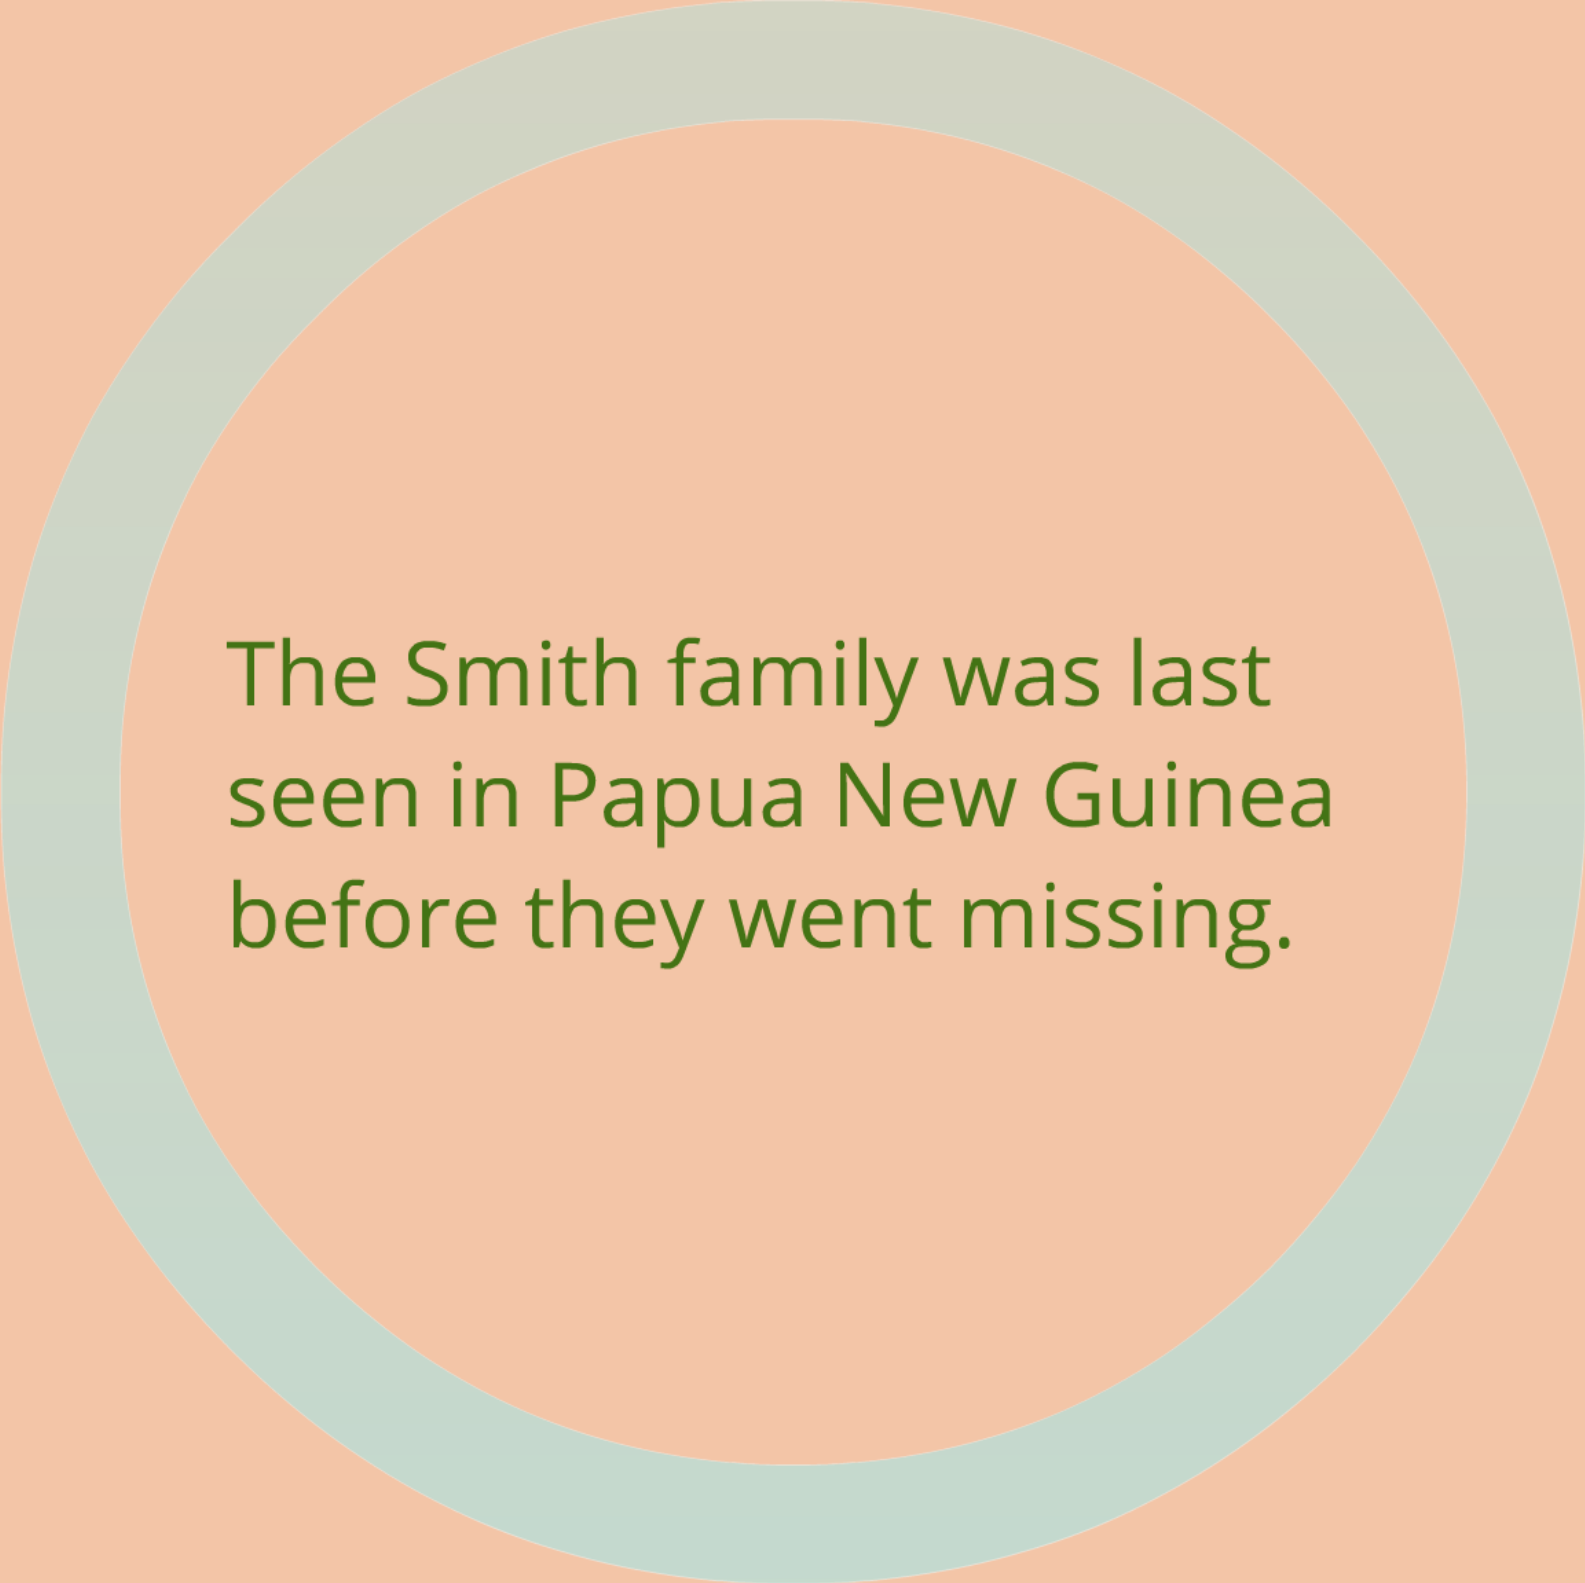

Benguela

Mozambique

Agulhas

The bottle was found on the coast of the south western tip of Africa, specifically at the coordinates (25s) and (15e).

The Smith family was last seen in Papua New Guinea
before they went missing.

The values we hold
high & practice
in business.