2. Jirga of the Kuki Khel Afridis (*jirga= council of Afghan tribal leaders)
3. Sher Afzal

Summary

The Emir of Afghanistan sent a summons to the jirga of the Kuki Khel Afridis and the Emir wanted to bring them to his side but the jirga thought that he was talking down to them since his kingdom prospers while their own people suffer so they did not side with the Emir and throw his kindness back at him.

The Emir was angered that they treated his kind words and since he felt insulted, he rose and left the Durbar in haste, leaving behind his sabre in a gold-encrusted scabbard. One of the jirga, Amin Khan, decides to steal the sword for himself but gets caught by a vigilante sentry.

Amin was brought before the Emir and the Emir was enraged that Amin attempted to steal his sword so he sentenced Amin to death. A little before sunset on the day of Amin's execution, Agha, another member of the jirga, found Amin tied up but was sent away by the executioner and Amin himself since he was ready to die.
