

- Born on December 5th, 1901
- Chicago, Illinois
- Parents: Flora and Elias Disney
- One of Five Children

Walt always knew that he wanted to be an actor, he wanted to "design" and bring people joy. He became a professional animator. He worked at Disney's newspaper office to save his way to the famous Hollywood.

Walt decided to move to Hollywood, California. He and Roy decided to start a new business in 1929, and opened the business in their Uncle's garage. Their business started to flourish and they were able to buy a house in the back of a real estate office.

Walt then became the "mouse" in a cartoon. He drew Mickey Mouse in 1928, and he was the first cartoon character to talk. He became very popular and he became the most popular cartoon character in America.

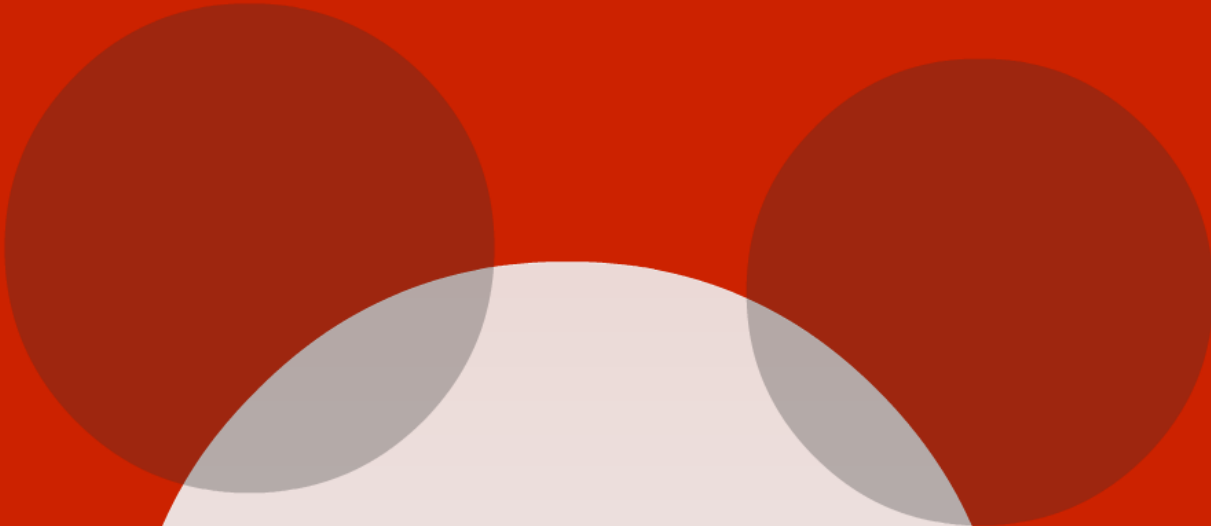

On July 13th, 1925 Walt married one of his first employees, Lillian Bounds. They later had two daughters, Sharon and Diane. Walt's business was starting to become very profitable, but he did not let this come between his family.

Walt's first employee was used to a movie camera, called Prince Castle. When Walt Disney was involved in movies. The camera featured the use of Mickey Mouse.

Walt Disney was one of the first to use the camera to make his "Walt Disney".

Walt Disney

Thecasesolution.com

- Born on December 5th, 1901
- Chicago, Illinois
- Parents: Flora and Elias Disney
- One of Five Children

- Walt always knew that he wanted to be an artist.
- He studied art, design, and photography at McKinley High School.
- His father did not approve of his dream.
- At age 16 he joined the Red Cross.

- When Walt returned, he moved back in with his family in Kansas City.
- He then decided to start his career in commercial art.
- He started designing for local businesses.
- Named his company: Laugh-O-Grams.

